

ABSTRACT

Selecting a process from an information display by speaking, includes defining a bounded region on the information display, associating at least a part of the bounded region with a color, where the color is used to indicate that the process is speech-enabled and relating a command with at least one of the bounded region and the color. The command causes the process to be selected when spoken.

FOIA b 7 - DECLASSIFIED